Excerpt from The Scripture Doctrine of Divine Sovereignty: Viewed in Connection With Man's Responsibility Mark xii. 30. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and With all thy soul, and will) all thy mind, and all thy strength: these are the first duties they of course resolve into physical inability; thus annihilating all human guilt, or maintaining that guilt consists in not doing what We are, physically, unable to perform! Many have no definite views at all as to the amount of responsibility which rests upon the sinner; and they would be greatly puzzled to answer the question How far is he to be urged to perform the duties which the Bible enjoins They appear to have a vague conception of some kind of, obligation resting upon the sinner; but they are very much afraid of urging it too far, lest they should get upon Arminian ground, and say something derogatory to the doctrines of grace. And it must be confessed that some appear to be too much afraid of disturbing the consciences of sinners, and of making them...
