Emerald Eagle Productions, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Corsets are out. Freedom is in. The 20 s are ROARING! Movies are silent and Hollywood is shaping American culture. From coast to coast young girls like Heather Smith dream of becoming a movie star. One day two men shooting a western film near San ANgelo, Texas come to Pearl s Parlor for some fun. Is this Heather s big chance? Wyatt Earp, Mae West, John Wayne, Charlie Chaplin, Louise Brooks, Barbara Stanwyck.their stories will astound you. DIAMOND reminds us that when we remove the glitzy glamour, smoke and mirrors it is our human nature and the need to be loved that makes us all the same. PROLOGUE Ever since she was a little girl, Heather had dreamed of being an actress. While growing up in Illinois, the porch of the farmhouse had served as her stage, and her younger siblings, dolls and pets were her audience. Heather had spent all morning preparing for this interview. After examining herself carefully in the mirror, and after trying on seven different outfits, she had finally decided the royal blue was best. Simple and elegant, the dress showed off Heather s trim waistline, as well as the fact that this homegrown farm girl was a lady with class. I believe there must be some mistake. I was told this was an interview to set up a screen test for a part in the new western movie, Rio Concho. I am an actress and I also sing. Listen, Sweetheart.if you wanna play in the big leagues, you gotta play by the rules! Now take your clothes off! Leaning forward, the man rested his elbows on the large oak desk standing between him and his newest conquest....
